PACIFIC COAST COAL NO GOOD FOR WARSHIPS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22.—Dr. James A. Holmes, director of the Bureau of Mines, is endeavoring to find somewhere on the Pacific Coast deposits of coal suitable for use by the battleships of the navy. So far the coal tested has been found unsuitable for this purpose.

Mining interests on the Pacific Coast apparently have not been able to understand why coal that is satisfactory for use in merchant vessels can not be used for battleships. They have charged that the Eastern Coast is being favored.

Bethman Winthrop, assistant secretary of the navy, is authority for the statement that coal mined in the Pacific Coast States, in Australia, British Columbia and other foreign countries on the Pacific can not be used with satisfactory results in the furnace of a modern ship of war. Exhaustive surveys and tests have been made by government experts in the hope of discovering coal deposits that can be used, the item of expense for transportation across the country, or around it, being large.

The space allowed aboard a battleship for coal, ammunition, machinery and boilers, is necessarily limited. In order to obtain the maximum steaming capacity of each vessel, and consequently of the fleet, military efficiency demands and requires that nothing but the highest grade coal be used.

The department has issued orders that actual steaming tests be made this fall with one or more of the large armored cruisers on the Pacific Coast.

Death Visited Steamer Asia.

The grim reaper visited the Pacific Mail liner Asia on the evening of Friday, December 2nd and called W. J. Cooper, an instructor at the Kapiolani.

Five stowaways were unearthing after the vessel had cleared the Canadian ports but strange to say the famous John Oliver was not found among them.

The department has issued orders that actual steaming tests be made this fall with one or more of the large armored cruisers on the Pacific Coast.

STRIKING DECK HANDS ATTEMPT TO TIE UP STEAMER ZEALANDIA

Have Applied to Canadian Government for Appointment of Board of Conciliation—Vessel brought tourists but Little Cargo—Asia Here from the Orient and to Sail at Five This Evening—Damara to Burn Oil and Become a Tanker

Disaffected deck hands employed by the Union Steamship Company would tie up the steamer Zealandia and prevent that vessel from sailing from Victoria for Honolulu on her regular schedule.

At the last moment a committee of deck laborers made application to the Canadian government authorities for the appointment of a board of conciliation, under the Lemire Act alleging a dispute which will result in a strike unless the steamship company shows some indications toward acceding to their demands.

The Zealandia left the Canadian ports with the usual amount of cargo for the Colombo and way ports of call. The men claim that their wages have been cut five dollars a month without having received the thirty-day notice required by the provisions of the Lemire Act.

The crew arriving here this morning by the Zealandia is said to have caused no trouble. They decided to leave the matter of an adjustment of their wages to the committee appointed at Victoria.

The Zealandia was disengaged from Vancouver at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of December 2nd. She sailed from Victoria at ten-thirty that evening and met with strong southwest winds and high seas up to and including last Wednesday when the weather underwent a favorable change. Smooth seas prevailed from that time on to arrival at Honolulu early this morning.

Despite mutterings of labor trouble, the Zealandia has a full cargo for Australian ports. The vessel brought 200 packages cod fish and 200 sacks fertilizer material for Honolulu.

The vessel is making but a brief stay at Honolulu and is scheduled to set away for Fanning Island and the Celebes at one o'clock.

Her passengers include 166 saloon, 162 second cabin and 113 steerage. Some thirty passengers in various classes left the vessel at Honolulu.

Five stowaways were unearthing after the vessel had cleared the Canadian ports but strange to say the famous John Oliver was not found among them.

The department has issued orders that actual steaming tests be made this fall with one or more of the large armored cruisers on the Pacific Coast.

All visiting brothers very cordially invited to attend meetings of local lodges
